Chivalry and the Perfect Prince Habent sua fata libelli

Sixteenth Century Essays & Studies Series

General Editor
Michael Wolfe
St. John’s University

Editorial Board of Sixteenth Century Essays & Studies

Elaine Beilin
Framingham State College

Christopher Cezenza
Johns Hopkins University

Miriam U. Chrisman
University of Massachusetts, Emerita

Barbara B. Diefendorf
Boston University

Paula Findlen
Stanford University

Scott H. Hendrix
Princeton Theological Seminary

Jane Campbell Hutchison
University of Wisconsin-Madison

Robert M. Kingdon
University of Wisconsin, Emeritus

Ronald Love
University of West Georgia

Mary B. McKinley
University of Virginia

Raymond A. Mentzer
University of Iowa

Helen Nader
University of Arizona

Charles G. Nauert
University of Missouri, Emeritus

Max Reinhart
University of Georgia

Sheryl E. Reiss
Cornell University

Robert V. Schnucker
Truman State University, Emeritus

Nicholas Terpstra
University of Toronto

Margot Todd
University of Pennsylvania

James Tracy
University of Minnesota

Merry Wiesner-Hanks
University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee
CHIVALRY & the PERFECT PRINCE

Tournaments, Art, and Armor at the Spanish Habsburg Court

BRADEN FRIEDER
Contents

Figures ................................................................. viii
Preface .................................................................  xiii
Acknowledgments ................................................... xvi
A Note on Sources .................................................... xvii
1 A Sport for Princes ................................................. 3
   The Art of the Tournament in the Renaissance
2 Beauty, Love, and Pleasure ....................................... 32
   The Prince as Knight-Errant and Consort
3 A Soldier of Christ ................................................ 66
   The Prince as Crusader and Defender of the Church
4 The Empire Reborn ................................................. 104
   The Prince as Heir Apparent and Divine Deliverer
5 Epilogue ............................................................... 176
   The Long Journey Home
Appendix 1 .............................................................. 185
   A Chronology of Tournaments at the Spanish Habsburg Court, 1504–1604
Appendix 2 .............................................................. 193
   Tournaments and Competitors on the Grand Tour of Philip of Spain, 1548–1551
Glossary ................................................................. 219
Bibliography ............................................................ 225
About the Author ...................................................... 227
Index ..................................................................... 229
Figures

Map: The European Empire of Charles V, ca. 1548–51

Genealogical Table: The Family of Charles V

1.1 Joust of Emperor Maximilian I of Habsburg, from a German tournament book, early sixteenth century

1.2 Italian or Flemish, armor of Henry VIII, ca. 1515

1.3 South German, armor for the Gestech, ca. 1490

1.4 English, rebated lance point (coronel), early sixteenth century

1.5 English, bordonsasse, first half of sixteenth century

1.6 Lucas Cranach the Elder, A Tournament, 1509

1.7 Colman Helmschmied, armor for man and horse of Ferdinand I with reinforcing pieces, ca. 1526

1.8 German (Augsburg), blued and gilded armor of Maximilian II, 1557

1.9 Armor garniture for various types of tournament

1.10 Jörg Seusenhofer and Hans Perckhammer, tonlet armor of Archduke Ferdinand II of the Tyrol, 1547

1.11 Northern Italian (Milan), half-armor of the Duke of Dos Aguas for combat on foot, 1575–80

1.12 After Antoine Caron, The Valois Tapestries, panel 7, A Fight at the Barriers, ca. 1580

1.13 After Antoine Caron, The Valois Tapestries, panel 8, Attack on an Elephant, ca. 1580

1.14 Bartolommeo Campi, armor all’antica of Guidobaldo II della Rovere, Duke of Urbino, 1546

1.15 Roman, Tiberius, first century AD

1.16 After Antoine Caron, The Valois Tapestries, panel 2, Carrousel and Mêlée at Bayonne, ca. 1580

1.17 Spanish or American Southwest, adarga (shield), probably mid-eighteenth century

1.18 Pieter Coecke van Aelst, title page of Juan Cristobal Calvete de Estrella, El Felicíssimo viaje del Príncipe don Philippe, Antwerp, 1552
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Figure</th>
<th>Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>2.1</td>
<td>Flanders, armor of Philip I, ca. 1490–1500</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2.2</td>
<td>Master of Affligem, Zierikzee Triptych with Portraits of Philip of Burgundy and Juana of Castile, late fifteenth to early sixteenth century</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2.3</td>
<td>Nuremberg, model of a knight, ca. 1540</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2.4</td>
<td>Jan Cornelisz Vermeyen, The Game of Cane, 1539</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2.5</td>
<td>Desiderius Colman, portions of an armor for the joust of Prince Philip of Spain (“strapwork” garniture), 1544</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2.6</td>
<td>Anthonis van den Wyngaerde, Whitehall, ca. 1558</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2.7</td>
<td>English (?) Lord Strange fights a Spanish knight at the barriers with a sword, ca. 1554</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2.8</td>
<td>Anthonis van den Wyngaerde, Greenwich, ca. 1558</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2.9</td>
<td>Anthonis van den Wyngaerde, Westminster, ca. 1544–45</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2.10</td>
<td>Wolf of Landshut and Franz Grosschedel, armor for war and the Freiturnier of Philip of Spain (“waves” or “clouds” garniture), 1554</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.1</td>
<td>Flanders, detail, armor of Philip I, ca. 1490–1500</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.2</td>
<td>Flanders, sallet of Philip I, ca. 1496–1500</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.3</td>
<td>Probably Italian (Negroli?), sallet decorated in Hispano-Moresque style, ca. 1500</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.4</td>
<td>Albrecht Altdorfer, Battle of Alexander, 1528–29</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.5</td>
<td>Parmigianino, Allegorical Portrait of Emperor Charles V, 1530</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.6a,b</td>
<td>Filippo Negroli, panoply of Charles V, 1533</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.7a,b</td>
<td>German, armor and bard of Charles V with ram’s horns, after 1519</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.8</td>
<td>Willem de Pannemaker after Jan Vermeyen &amp; Pieter Coecke van Aelst, Conquest of Tunis, panel 2, 1549–54</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.9</td>
<td>Desiderius Colman (attr.), breastplate of Charles V (“broad-bands” armor), 1538</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.10</td>
<td>Caremolo Modrone (attr.), portions of an armor of Charles V (“palm-branch” armor), ca. 1536</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.11a,b</td>
<td>Italian, panoply of Charles V, after 1535</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.12</td>
<td>Filippo and Francesco Negroli, helmet of Charles V, 1545</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.13</td>
<td>Titian, Charles V at Mühlberg, 1548</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.14</td>
<td>German, armor of Charles V (“Mühlberg” armor), 1544</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.15</td>
<td>Matteus Frauenpreis, shield of Philip II, 1543</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.16</td>
<td>Italian, pontifical sword, ca. 1550</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.17</td>
<td>Leone Leoni, portrait medal of Philip of Spain, ca. 1549</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.18</td>
<td>Wolf of Landshut, armor of Philip II for man and horse (“Burgundy-cross” armor), 1550</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.19</td>
<td>Anthonis Mor, Portrait of Philip II, 1557</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.20</td>
<td>Titian, Allegory of Lepanto, after 1571</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.21</td>
<td>Mexican, feather shield of Philip II, after 1571</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Figure</td>
<td>Description</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>--------</td>
<td>-------------</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.1</td>
<td>German, Emperor Charles V as a Boy, ca. 1515</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.2</td>
<td>Albrecht Dürer, Charlemagne, 1512-13</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.3</td>
<td>Colman Helmschmied, armor of Charles V (&quot;KD&quot; garniture), 1515-25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.4</td>
<td>Colman Helmschmied, jousting shield with birds, 1515-25</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.5</td>
<td>Matteus Frauenpreis, shield of Francis I, ca. 1525 (?)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.6</td>
<td>Venetian, detail, Entry of Charles V into Bologna, 1529</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.7</td>
<td>Italian, shield of Charles V, after 1535</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.8</td>
<td>Italian, arch of Charles V at Milan, 1541</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.9</td>
<td>Titian, Portrait of Philip II, 1549</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.10</td>
<td>Desiderius Colman (attr.), armor of Philip II (&quot;flower&quot; garniture), ca. 1549</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.11</td>
<td>Jacopo da Trezzo, portrait medal of Philip of Spain, 1555</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.12</td>
<td>Jan Cornelisz Vermeyen, Combat (drawing 1), 1549</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.13</td>
<td>Jan Cornelisz Vermeyen, Combat (drawing 2), 1549</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.14</td>
<td>Flemish, a tournament at Brussels (?), illumination from Les Heures de Notre Dame, sixteenth century</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.15</td>
<td>Desiderius Colman, tonlet armor of Philip of Spain (&quot;strapwork&quot; garniture), ca. 1544-49</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.16</td>
<td>Desiderius Colman, portions of an armor and pageant pieces of Philip of Spain (&quot;strapwork&quot; garniture), ca. 1544-49</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.17</td>
<td>Flemish, Dance of the Savages, ca. 1549</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.18</td>
<td>Pieter Coecke van Aelst, arch of the Genoese at Antwerp, 1549, from Cornelius Scribonius Grapheus, Triomphe d'Anvers (Antwerp, 1550)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.19a,b</td>
<td>Desiderius Colman, armor and shield of Philip of Spain, 1549-51</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.20</td>
<td>Cédula to Desiderius Colman, dated Augsburg, 1551</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4.21</td>
<td>Sánchez Coello, Portrait of Philip II, ca. 1570</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5.1</td>
<td>Leone Leoni, Philip of Spain, 1551-53</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5.2</td>
<td>Leone Leoni, Charles V Trampling Fury, ca. 1556-58</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5.3a,b,c</td>
<td>Italian, boy's armors of Philip III, ca. 1585</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5.4a,b</td>
<td>Italian, boy's armors of Philip III, ca. 1585</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5.5</td>
<td>Justus Tiel, Allegory of the Education of Philip III, ca. 1585-95</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Preface

The origin of this book was a visit to the Royal Armory in Madrid. As a young history student, I was attracted to the suits of decorated armor made for Emperor Charles V and his son, Philip II of Spain. Renaissance princes wore decorated armors not only for protection, but also as status symbols. I was intrigued by the idea that these suits of armor were really costumes for a kind of royal theater in which the ruler appeared to his people as the descendant of ancient gods and Christian heroes. The stages on which the prince acted out this role were the tournaments, state entries, and military campaigns of the Renaissance. The actors in these events commissioned armor and other artworks specifically for these occasions, their collective iconography expressing Renaissance ideas of the perfect prince. This common vocabulary of chivalric imagery was linked to historical events and to the unique problems faced by the Habsburg regime. By the middle of the sixteenth century, European monarchs rarely led their own troops into battle, though the worth of a ruler was still conceptualized in military terms. The ruling dynasty used the visual language of the tournament and martial display to symbolically affirm the legitimacy of their rule and the identity of the prince as a divinely appointed deliverer.

When I began my study, I found that, although there is a fair amount of literature on the connoisseurship of Renaissance armor, relatively little had been published on the context and meaning of these splendid artifacts. Shifting my research to courtly spectacle and festival art in the sixteenth century, I found that books and articles in recent years have tended to sideline the tournaments that accompanied the ceremonial entries of visiting princes. A closer examination of Renaissance spectacle shows that the tournament in the sixteenth century was not peripheral to the royal entry, but central to it. A search through the available literature on tournaments provided better hunting, but the main object of the chase still proved elusive. Compared to the large volume of material published on military history, only a handful of books were devoted to the tournament itself. For the most part, these studies focused on medieval tournaments, with the Renaissance tournament treated as a kind of denouement. This seems strange indeed, considering that the tournament as an art form reached its apogee in the Renaissance. The tournaments held at the courts of sixteenth-century European monarchs were unsurpassed in size and splendor, and were remembered in these terms by contemporary writers on the subject. Their descriptions proved to be the most fruitful primary sources for my study, and form the basis of this book.

As Malcolm Vale points out in War and Chivalry, the comparative lack of interest in later chivalry can probably be traced to the writings of the cultural historian Johan Huizinga (1872–1945). Echoing the German philosopher Hegel, Huizinga believed every age in history was pervaded by its own fundamental spirit that determined all forms of cultural life. In the late Middle Ages, when the tournament-as-spectacle took shape at the courts of Burgundy and Flanders, the spirit of the age, according to Huizinga, was one of decadence and decline. This view continues to inform much of the current scholarship on chivalry and tournaments. Modern historians have also emphasized the widening gap between chivalry and real life at the end of the Middle Ages. People living in the Renaissance, however, were unaware that chivalry was in decline. The Jouvencel, based on a fourteenth-century manual of knighthood, went through five printed editions between 1493 and 1529. The tournament was still alive and well at the courts of Queen Elizabeth and King James of Scotland at the beginning of the seventeenth century. Apart from religion, chivalry remained the strongest of all ethical considerations, particularly among the ruling classes. Contemporary views on the subject are suggested by a curious incident alleged to have taken place following the Battle of Pavia in 1525. Emperor Charles V, exasperated with Francis I for breaking an oath taken as a condition of his release from captivity after the battle, challenged the king to personal combat as a way of settling their differences. Knightly warfare may have been out of date, but chivalric values were not.

The visual arts provide another invaluable source of information on the aristocratic ideals of warfare and the tournament in the sixteenth century. Renaissance artists were closely attuned to the needs of their patrons, and provided portraits and other artworks designed to appeal to their self-image. As the imperial family, the Habsburgs patronized some of the finest painters, sculptors, and armorers of the Renaissance. The imagery used to decorate Habsburg armor and artworks depicting important people wearing it was not simply arbitrary, but filled with constructed meanings pointing to the larger Habsburg agenda. In many cases, these artworks can be tied to sixteenth-century current events. Studied together in their original context, art and armor began to make more sense. Recent studies by Alan Young and others suggest a change in the air, and have returned to the tournament as an integral part of a wider spectrum of chivalric life and culture, which lost none of its vitality in the Renaissance. Tournaments at the Spanish Habsburg court, however, are still understudied. It is to address these areas that this book was undertaken.
Acknowledgments

A great number of people have assisted me in developing this project over the years, far too many to acknowledge here. First, I thank Andy Mancuso and Howard Rodee for encouraging an early interest. Funding for my preliminary research at the University of Wisconsin–Madison and travel to Europe was provided in part by grants from the Shorger Fund for Studies in Italian Art. In Spain, I would like to thank the staff at the Archivo General de Simancas, especially Dra. Isabel Aguirre Landa, for her help in navigating the labyrinth. I am forever indebted to Dr. Alvaro Soler del Campo, director of the Royal Armory in Madrid, who patiently stood by and answered all my questions while I photographed the armors under his care. In Italy, my thanks go to the staff of the Biblioteca Nazionale and the reading room at the Palazzo Medici-Riccardi in Florence. The staff at the Archivio di Stato and the Biblioteca Braidense, Milan, were also enormously helpful, and fielded both scholarly and nonscholarly questions about getting around in Milan. The work of historians Geoffrey Parker and Henry Kamen was of inestimable value in reconstructing the childhood interests of Philip II. My thanks also to Professors Narciso Menocal, Gail Geiger, and Jane Campbell Hutchison at the University of Wisconsin–Madison, who as members of my dissertation committee read and critiqued my initial research for this book. Silvia Giorgini checked my Italian translations. I would also like to express my appreciation to Professor Steven Orso for his advice and interest in my project. My wife lent constant support and also provided invaluable editorial assistance. And I will always remember Juan Antonio, Rubén, and Víctor for their friendship and encouragement. Sí, vale la pena.
A Note on Sources

The primary sources for Renaissance tournaments are festival books, which are eyewitness accounts published to commemorate the visits of rulers and other important people to major cities in the sixteenth century. Translating this material into something resembling modern English proved an enormous task, though an extremely rewarding one. These accounts often include detailed descriptions of the tournaments and other pageantry that followed the ceremonial entries of Habsburg princes. Festival books themselves were modeled on contemporary chivalric literature, especially the prose cycle of Amadis of Gaul, a medieval romance that was eventually published and proved enormously popular in the Renaissance.

Inventories of the possessions of Emperor Charles V and his successor, King Philip II, have also survived, having been placed for safekeeping in the royal archives at Simancas near Valladolid, Spain. These documents were helpful in tracking down tournament armors and related artworks belonging to the emperor and his son. Original account books of the royal household are also preserved in the archives at Simancas. The records of payment are occasionally detailed enough to allow us to link armors and other artworks to specific events, or at least narrow the gap a bit.

The translations in this book are my own. Translation sometimes involves making a compromise between strict grammatical accuracy and conveying the sense of a word or phrase into the target language. Where this was the case, I ask the reader’s indulgence for rendering the source into what seemed the appropriate English style.
About the Author

Braden Frieder is assistant professor of art history at Morehead State University. His research interests range from Renaissance and baroque art to Latin America and the decorative arts. He has published articles in books and journals, and critical reviews on art, music, and cultural history. He received his doctorate in art history from the University of Wisconsin-Madison.
Index

Notes
Illustrations are not indexed. A complete listing is on pages vi–x.
Philip, son of Charles V, is indexed as Philip II, although he is discussed in the text as Philip, Prince Philip, Crown Prince Philip, etc.

A
Aachen, Philip’s visit to, 161
Acuña, Diego de, 54, 188, 190, 196, 201, 205–9
Adolf of Schönburg, 133
Adventure of the Enchanted Sword, 135–50
Alba, Duke of, 42, 157, 188, 195, 197, 200, 203, 206–9
Albicante (poet), 50, 116–17
Algiers, 67, 80
Altdorfer, Albrecht, Battle of Alexander, 71–73
Alvaro of Portugal, 58, 197, 210
Amadis of Gaul
as anti-Christian, 89–90 favorite tale of Philip II, 40, 59 as model of chivalry, 23, 37, 46–47, 47n, 151
Amantecas of Mexico, 102
Americas, 99, 112, 116, 156
Anguissola, Sofonisba, 29
Antwerp tournaments, 158–61, 183–84 architecture. See also art column motif, 118–20 festival art as, 29, 183 for role-playing pageantry, 18, 20, 43–44, 46, 135–50 for royal entries: Binche, 135–36; Bologna, 110; Brussels, 123–24; Genoa, 116; Ghent, 134; Milan, 114–17 for tournaments: Antwerp, 158–61; Binche Enchanted Sword adventure, 143–45; Brussels, 129–30; Mariemont, 153–58, 157n; Trent, 90, 93 armor
See also: Glossary, 213–17; list of Figures, viii all’antica, 20–24
Burgundy-cross, 97–99, 103, 163 ceremonial, 29–30, 47–48, 68–69, 74–77
chivalric/classical imagery of, 16, 74–77, 83–88 components of, 8, 10–11, 13–17, 25
as formal dress wear, 63
garniture (complete set of), 14–16, 47–48, 108, 121, 139–41, 163–67
Golden Fleece decoration, 68–69, 118–21 half-armor, 16–17
hussar style, 164
lances, 10, 88
ornamentation of, 14, 47–48; birds, 108–9; Golden Fleece, 68–69; palm branch, 84; of rank and authority, 29, 118–21 reinforcements of, 13–14, 16 shields: for barriers combat, 16–17; classical decoration for, 88–89; feather-worked, for Philip II, 101–3; for jousting armor, 8; of Maximilian I, 11 standard and custom tailored, 30 swords: imperial symbolism of, 27, 106–7; for mêlées, 10 Turco-Hungarian, 109 worn at Imperial Diet, 167
armorers
Colman, 30, 47–48n
as craftsmen, 8, 10, 16, 20, 29–30, 63–64, 98, 102–3
Index

armorers (continued)
  Grosschedel, 63
  Negroli, 30, 52, 76, 83, 85, 220 patronized by royalty, 30
  Perckhammer, 16
  Seusenhofer, 16, 108
  Wolf, 63–64, 97–99, 103, 163

Arroyo, Diego del, 47, 49
art. See also architecture armorial traditions of, 29–30 for Binche royal entry, 135–36 crusade motifs, 68–69 festival book illustrations, 28 festive/allegorical, 31, 45
  Golden Fleece symbols on armor, 68–69
  Habsburg patronage of, 29, 60 legendary and ceremonial, 23, 28–29 Spanish cane game, 38
  tapestries, 10, 17–18, 23, 25, 80, 82, 129
  visual language of universal empire, 172

Augsburg
  Philip II’s succession negotiations, 4, 49, 58–59, 89, 122, 161–62, 169 tournaments in, 163, 184

Aventinus, Johannes, 73

B
Badajoz, García Sánchez de, 56
Barbarossa, Khayr-ad-Din, 66, 78–80
Barcelona tournaments, 169, 179–80
Battle of Alexander, 72
Battle of Lepanto, 99
Battle of Mühlberg, 86
Battle of St. Quentin, 97
Bayonne tournaments, 18, 23–24, 63, 185
Berghes, Marquis Jean de, 57, 198, 202–3, 205–6, 209–10
Binche
  Enchanted Sword adventure, 142–50, 152, 158
  Mariemont Palace, St. Bartholomew’s Day, 57, 153–58, 183, 202
Bologna, coronation of Charles V, 71, 74, 110–12, 180
Boscán (poet), 56
Bravo, Juan, History of the Golden Fleece and Order of the Toison, 68
Brussels tournament pageantry, 4, 52–58, 94–96, 122–32, 181–84, 191
Busanton, André de, 138–39, 194, 199–200

C
Calvete de Estrella, Juan Cristóbal, El Felicissimo viaje del Príncipe don Phelippe, 52, 58, 90–91
Campi, Bartolommeo, 22
Caravaggio, 30
Carlos (son of Philip II and Maria), 48
Carvajal, Luis de, 58, 206–8, 210
Catalina (Charles V’s sister), 35–36
Catherine de Médicis, 18, 185
Catholic Church, emperor as defender of, 66–68, 82, 86
Cellini, Benvenuto, 167
Charlemagne, 107, 152
Charles V
  abdication of, 170 arms/armor of, 3, 82–83, 108–9
  as art patron, 29
  defeats Barbarossa, 66 genealogy and astrology of, 105 as Holy Roman Emperor, 32, 35–37 illness of (gout), 182 imperial iconography for, 106–8 inheritor of crusades, 67–74 as Last World Emperor, 104–5, 112–14 marriage to Isabella of Portugal, 37 motto of, 35
  panoply of, 85
  papal coronation and investiture of, 71, 74, 180 portraits of, 29, 73, 99, 106 royal entries of, 23, 79, 84–85, 110–11, 116, 181 struggle for empire, 105–6 at Valladolid tournaments, 35–36 written advice to son Philip, 41–42

Christians
  chivalry and syncretism, 68–70, 74 (see also imagery) early modern eschatology, 104–5, 112–14 symbols for knights, 68–70, 82–84, 98–99, 130–40
  Coecke van Aelst, Pieter, 80, 160
  Coello, Sánchez, 167
  Colman, Desiderius, 30, 47–48, 82, 120, 140, 163–67

color usage
  ceremonial, 6
  symbolism of, 42–43
  specific colors: black, 44, 53, 57, 59, 130, 145; black/yellow, 45; blue, 14, 43n; blue/gold, 129; blue/yellow, 61; brown, 130; brown/white, 56; crimson, 42; crimson murrey, 139; gold/blue, 144; green, 42–44, 132; murrey/gold, 147; murrey (purplish black), 42, 54, 58; orange, 42, 45–46; orange/white, 45; red, 42, 55–56, 86, 145; red/gold, 47n, 144; red/white, 43, 58, 118, 138; red/yellow, 132; ruddy, 148; scarlet, 118, 132, 144; scarlet/yellow, 147; silver, 42–43, 55; symbolism of, 42–46; tawny, 55; vermillion, 43n; white, 42–43, 45, 54–55, 117–18, 120, 157; white/murrey, 54; yellow, 139; yellow/crimson, 59

combats barriers, 16–17, 191
at Binche, 136–41, 149, 200
at Brussels, 129–30
cane games, 25–26
champ clos, 11, 13–14 described, 16–18
fancy dress, 190–91, 202
Fusskampf, 13–14
on islands, 45–46, 182
juego de alcancías (perfumed earth balls), 26, 41 juego de cañas (cane game), 25 of Lord Strange, 60–61
as mating games, 41
at Milan, 50, 117
skirmish, 190
at Trent, 90–91, 94
at Valencia, 41, 181
Valois Tapestries depiction, 18 at Whitehall, 60–61
comedy, in tournament imagery, 49, 57–58, 95
Córdoba, Alvaro de, 42 costumes/disguises as ancient gods, 56–57 as Celts, 20
as centaurs, 50–51, 91–93 eastern European style, 123
at Enchanted Sword adventure, 135–50
of followers of love, 53
Hungarian style, 42, 147
as hussars, 123
Moorish style, 20, 25, 42, 70, 79, 133, 147, 179 and role-playing pageantry, 18, 20, 27, 43–44
savage motif, 155–56
Turkish style, 18, 20, 42, 61, 91–92, 133, 156
various, 20, 25, 42

Cranach, Lucas the Elder, A Tournament, 10 Crusades artistic depiction of, 73–74, 82
as Christian ideal, 66–69, 98
under Philip II, 101
Cupid/Love, as object of joust and masque, 52–57

D

dances. See masquerades Doria, Andrea, 116
Duke of Dos Aguas, 17
Duke of Mantua, 85
Duke of Sessa, 117
Duke of Urbino, 22
Dürer, Albrecht, 29–30

E

Egmont, Count of, 54–55, 133, 197, 199–200, 205–8, 210
Elizabeth of Portugal, 59, 97 emblems, design, production, and use of, 28–31
England
armor making in, 8 tournament games, 25 wedding festivities: Philip and Mary, 59–63; Strange-Cumberland marriage, 185 Enríquez, Fadrique, 44, 189–90
Enríquez, Luis, 44, 195
Erasmus, Desiderius, Education of a Christian Prince, 40

F

fabrics. See textiles Farnese, Alessandro, 59 fatalities, in jousts, 4–6 feast/festival day events
Ascension Day, 95, 184
Carnival Day, 184
Christmas Day, 187
Easter, 61
Exaltation of the Cross, 184
Feast of St. Andrew, 182
Immaculate Conception, 41, 181
King’s Day, 189–90
Lady Day, 61, 185
Lent, 129, 207
New Year’s Day, 112, 180
Our Lady of the Sablon, 95
Quasimodo Sunday, 58, 129, 193
Shrove Tuesday, 52, 207
Index

feast/festival day events (continued)

St. Bartholomew’s Day, 137, 183
St. Silvester’s Day, 117, 188
Ferdinand, challenges imperial crown, 161
Ferrara, Antonio de, 26 festival books, 27–29, 50–51 Filiberto, Emmanuel. See Philibert, Emmanuel fireworks, 20, 44, 54, 91, 133, 161
Flanders, succession of Philip II, 95
Florence, surrender of, 180
Fontainebleau tournaments, 181
Francis I, 94, 105, 181
Frauenpreis, Matteus, 30

G

games. See combats
Gaspar (fencing master), 49
Gelves, Count Alvaro de Portugal of, 58, 197
Genoa, violence in, 116
Germany, armor making in, 8
Ghent
  acceptance ceremony for Philip II, 96 tournament on Charles V’s entry, 183 gifts, for visiting monarchs, 27
Gongora (poet), 65
Gonzaga, Hippolita, 49, 182
Gonzaga family, as Habsburg allies, 52
Granada, 69–70, 99
Greek legends. See imagery
Greenwich tournaments, 5, 179–80, 184–85
Grosschedel, Franz, 30, 63–64
Grosschedel, Wolfgang, 30
Guadalajara island tournament, 46, 182
Guidobaldo II della Rovere, 22

H

Habsburgs chivalric emblems of, 68
  as Holy Roman Emperors, 3–4, 105–6 as messianic descendants, 77–78 significance of Binche spectacle for, 152
Hasan, Mulay, 78
Helmschmied, Colman, 30, 47, 108–9
Henry II (France), 4–5, 23
heraldry, 28, 134
Herbaix, Jacques de, 58, 158, 191, 194, 196, 203, 206, 208
Holy Roman Empire, struggle for, by Habsburgs, 105–6
Horn, Clement, 167 horses/horsemanship grand carrousel, 25
  Haro (Philip II’s mount), 42 in jousts, 8, 10
  saddle ornamentation, 3n symbolic armor for, 76, 130
Howard, Charles, 65
Howard, George, 61
Hungarians, as costume motif, 20, 42 hunts/hunting, 27, 180 hussars, 123, 164

I

imagery
  biblical: allegorical heroes, 11, 44–45, 76, 78, 84, 123; and eschatological beliefs, 104–6; as imperial motifs, 133–34
  chivalric: in armor and armaments, 16, 84, 88; in emblems, 28–29, 68–70; in tournament role-play, 2, 11, 18, 23, 43, 94, 151–58
  Hercules: as symbol for Charles V, 74, 76, 96; as symbol for Philip II, 96–97, 117, 164, 177; as tournament character, 51, 74, 76, 78–79, 91–94
  Samson: as Habsburg icon, 77–78; as tournament image, 11
Innsbruck, Philip’s visit, 121–22, 169
Isabel de Valois (queen of Spain), 63, 179, 185
Isabella of Portugal (empress), 37–38, 40, 180
Islam, of Ottoman Turks. See Turks l’Isle, Mademoiselle, 58

J

Jones, Inigo, 90
jousting/jousts armor for, 8, 13–14
  at Brussels, 52–54
  as courtship events, 36 in fancy-dress, 200 at quintains, 25
  at Valencia, 18
  at Valladolid, 35–36, 179
Juan of Austria, 99
Juana of Castile, 32
K
Kantorowicz, Ernest, 172 knights as foot combatants, 16–18, 188 prince as knight-errant, 32–43 ranks and roles of, 5–11, 23–25 as romantic ideal, 45–46
Sorrowful Knight tournament, 52–54
Knights of the Golden Fleece, 180, 182

L
La Noue, François de, 89
Lanoy, Hernando de, 130–31, 187, 191, 194, 196
Lara, Juan Manrique de, 158, 192, 200, 202, 204, 208
Leonardo da Vinci, 30
Leoni, Leone, 29, 96, 170, 172–73
Leoni, Pompeo, 29, 103 literature used for tournament themes, 25, 27–29, 36, 57, 151–58
livery
at Enchanted Sword adventure, 130, 134, 146
of House of Tudor, 61 as important tourney component, 27 luxurious, at Valladolid, 42–43 at Philip and Mary’s wedding, 59
London, not conducive to tournaments, 60
Low Countries, 8, 122–32

M Madruzzo, Cardinal-Bishop, 90
Mallory, Thomas, Morte d’Arthur, 57, 151
Mantua tournaments, 180
Margaret of Austria, marries Philip III, 63
Maria Manuela of Portugal, 42, 48, 181–82
Mariani, Michelanelo, 90
Mariemont Palace spectacles, 57, 153–58, 183, 202
Mary, queen of Hungary, 120, 122, 134–35
Mary of Burgundy, 32
Mary Tudor, queen of England, 59, 63 masquerades after Trent tournament, 93
at Binche, 141–42, 153–58
at Brussels, 133
at Ghent, 134
at Tournament of Love, 55–58
Master of Affligem, Zierlklee Triptych..., 33
Maurice, Duke of Saxony, 122
Maximilian, Archduke of Austria, 11
Maximilian I, 11, 29, 32
Maximilian II, 14
medals/coins, 28, 30–31, 93n, 96, 121
Medina del Campo tournament, 42, 181–82
Meghen, Count of, 130, 198, 200, 205–6, 208
Milan, 8, 20, 49–50, 181–82, 187–90
Modrone, Caremolo, 30 armorer, 84
Montigny, Seigneur de, 70
Montmorency, Francis de, 158, 204
Moors
as costume motif, 20, 25, 42, 70, 79, 133, 179
as enemy of Spain, 67–68
Mor, Anthonis, 29
Moriscos, expelled from Granada, 99 mottoes, 35, 92, 112, 191, 216
Muñoz (courtier), on English people, 60

N
Naples tournaments, 26, 79–80, 180
naval combats, 185
Negroli family (Filippo and Francesco), 20, 30, 52, 76, 83, 85
Nobili, Alberto de, 117
Norabroch combats, at Binche, 142–48

O
Order of Alcántara, 67, 188, 190, 199, 201
Order of Calatrava, 67
Order of Montesa, 67
Order of Santiago, 67, 71, 180
Order of the Garter, 59
Order of the Golden Fleece at Bologna tournaments, 71 emblems and symbols of, 68–69, 74–77 and Hercules, 96
pendant of, 74–75, 86, 167
as traditionally Habsburg, 67, 88, 164
Orlando Furioso, 23, 57–58
Orlando Innamorato, 57
Ottomans. See Turks

P
pageantry. See also color usage; textiles boats, 45–46
cars, 18, 23, 44–45, 50–51 and ceremonial armor, 23
at Enchanted Sword adventure, 135–50 island combat motif, 45–47, 182
at Milan, 49–50
of Renaissance tournaments, 18, 20
Index

pageantry (continued) at sandy field spectacle, 123
at Tournament of Love, 53–54
at Trent tournaments, 91–92
at Valladolid, 42–44
Pannemaker, Willem de, Conquest of Tunis tapestry, 80–82
Parmigianino, 29, 73
Pathie, Roger, 153
Perckhammer, Hans, 16
Perez, Gonzalo, 43
Perrenot, Antoine, 122
Philibert, Emmanuel, jousting of, 58, 132–33, 138
Philip I, of Castile (“the Handsome”), 32–33, 35
Philip II
armor of, 3, 37, 40–41, 47–48, 63, 118–20, 163–67 assessment of, 17, 169–72
Augsburg presentation of, 4, 49, 58–59, 89
at Binche, 150
childhood and youth of, 37, 40–41 claims Portuguese throne, 167
as classical hero and divine king, 170–72 Flanders succession of, 95–96 funerary sculpture for, 103 grand tours of realm, 4, 41, 48–49, 52, 116–22, 169–70 as ideal Christian prince, 49, 88–90 marriages: to Isabel de Valois, 63; to Mary Tudor, 59, 97, 172 and Order of the Golden Fleece, 88 portrait by Titian, 29 relationship with father, 4, 41–42, 52, 94, 122, 128 royal entries: Brussels, 4–6; Genoa, 116; Medina del Campo, 42, 181; Milan, 49–50, 117, 182; Seville, 185
Philip III marriage to Margaret of Austria, 63 marriage to Margarita of Styria, 186
Piccinino, Lucio, 172
Piedmont, Prince of. See Philibert, Emmanuel Pimentel, Juan, 134, 193
Pisan, Christine de, 5 pomegranates (granadas), as Christian/Habsburg symbols, 69–70, 93 pope
Clement III, crowns Charles V, 110, 112
Julius III, approves of Philip II, 97
Paul III: crowns Charles V, 71, 74, 180; honors Charles V, 80; presents sword to Philip II, 95; at tournament in Bologna, 180
Portugal, Alvaro de, 58, 197, 210
Prester John legend, 67 prizes
coins and medals, 27, 30–31, 44, 58, 121, 128 precious metals and jewels, 58, 133, 142 for tournament games, 26–27, 44, 55, 57
Protestants, 11, 86, 97, 99
Puertocarrero, Garcilaso, 58, 189, 198, 209
Q
Quest for the Marigold legend, 35
Quest of Love tournament, 35–36
Quijada, Juan, 138, 147, 196, 198, 200–201, 208
R Requesens, Luis de, 169, 192, 194 role-playing pageantry, 18, 20, 43–44, 49–51 Roman legends. See imagery
Romano, Giulio, 85, 88, 116
Romans, as costume motif, 20
Rome, 80, 109–10
royal entries. See also architecture
Charles V: at Bologna for coronation, 110–11; Ghent, 133–34; at Milan, 114, 181; at Naples, 79, 84–85, 114
Philip II: Antwerp, 184; Binche, 135–36; Brussels, 4–6, 122; Genoa, 116; Ghent, 133–34; Medina del Campo, 42, 181; at Trent, 121–22; as triumphal, 5
S
Salamanca tournaments, 42, 181
Sánchez-Coello, Alonso, 29
Santa Cruz (chronicler), 79
Santiago Matamoros, 83
Scharffenen tournaments, 11
Schmalkaldic League, invades Habsburg territory, 78, 86
Index

Sebastian I, 167
Sepulveda, Juan Ginés de, 38
Sessa, Duke of, 117, 188
Seusenhofer, Jörg, 16
Seusenhofer, Konrad, 108
Seville, 180, 185
Siege of Malta, mock battle, 185
Siliceo (tutor for Philip II), 40
Silva, Gómez de, 55–57, 60, 188, 190, 194–95, 197, 199, 203, 208–9
Speyer, barriers celebration in, 181
St. Barbara, 83, 121
St. James the Moorkiller, 83
stagecraft, of mock tournaments, 18, 20
Strange, Lord, 60–61
Strong, Roy, 152
symbolism
Charles V’s advice to Philip, 41–42 classical, on shields, 88–89 of divine monarchy, 158–61 in featherwork shield, 101–3 holy crusade emblems, 68–70, 82–84 of imperial persona, 105–8 of lances/spears, in art, 88 of livery colors, 42–43 for love and matrimony, 33, 42–45, 52–57
Nine Worthies, 107 of palm branches, 84
papal swords, 94–96 of Philip II’s armor, 164–65 pomegranate symbolism in, 70 pseudo-Kufic script, 84 of royal entry imagery, 134 of St. Andrew’s cross, 98–99 in Trent tournaments, 94 in unisex game, 41

T

textiles as armor patterns, 63 braid, 58
brocade, 6, 43, 55–56 cloth of gold, 55–56, 132, 157 cloth of silver, 42, 56, 58, 148, 157 fustian, 42
leather, 20
satin, 42, 53–55, 139
for scabbard, 42
silk, 42–44, 53, 132, 139, 144, 148, 156 taffeta, 43, 45, 55
tapestries, 10, 17–18, 23, 25, 80, 82, 129
velvet, 42–44, 53–55, 58, 117, 130, 132, 139, 157
See also color usage
Theodorianus, Aegidius, 133
Titian, 29
Alegory of Lepanto, 101
Charles V at Mühlberg, 99
Portrait of Philip II, 118–21
Toledo, Antonio de, 58, 188–89, 195, 197–98, 203, 207–9
Toledo, mock battle, 63, 185
Tortosa, naval combat (naumachia) at, 185 tournaments
Antwerp, 158–61, 183–84, 205–6
Augsburg, 163, 184
Barcelona, 169, 179–80
Bayonne, 18, 23
Bologna, 71, 110–11, 180
Brussels, 4, 52–58, 94–96, 122–32, 181–84, 191 club tourney (mêlée, Freiturnier), 10–11, 13–14, 17, 23–24 emblems for, 28–29
Enchanted Sword adventure, 135–50
England, 25
expenses for, 42–43, 45–46, 51–52
Fontainbleau, 181
foot combats, 17, 25–26, 39, 60, 179, 181
Fusskampf, 13–14
Ghent, 183
Greenwich, 5, 179–180, 184–85
Guadalajara, 46, 182 lists, 5–6
locale of and attendance at, 5–6
Mantua, 112, 180
Maximilian I’s innovations, 11
Medina del Campo, 42, 181–82
mêlée (Freiturnier, club tourney), 10–11, 13–14, 17, 23–24
Milan, 49–50
Naples, 16, 79–80, 180
naumachia (mock sea battle), 25 purposes of, 177
Quest of Love, 35–36 regulation/formalization of, 4–8 for religious obligations, 89–90 (see also feast/festival day events) Salamanca, 42 and statecraft, 4 Tournament of Love, 52–58
at Trent, 90–91, 94, 183, 190, 194
at Valladolid, 35–36, 42–45, 65, 179–82
for weddings, 59–63
Trent ecumenical Council of, 52, 90
Philip II’s royal entry, 121–22
Trent (continued)
  tournaments, 90–91, 94, 183, 190
Trezzo, Jacopo da, 121 triumphal entries. See royal entries Troyes, Chrétien, Arthurian tales of, 151
Tunis, 67, 78–79
Turks
  as costume motif, 18, 20, 42, 58, 61, 91–92
effigy burning of, 66
  as enemy of Holy Roman Empire, 67–68 as raiders of Tlemcen, 66 as threat to Habsburgs, 67, 161 as threat to Spanish navy, 99 at walls of Vienna, 71

U
Ulm, Philip’s visit to, 122

V
Valencia
  fiestas in honor of Philip II, 41, 89, 181 naval combat (naumachia) at, 185 weddings of Philip III and Margaret of Austria, 63
  weddings of Philip III, 186
Valeriano, Alciati and Piero, 29
Valladolid, tournaments on arrival of King Charles, 35–36, 179 on birth of Philip (II), 180 on birth of Philip (IV), 65 for Philip II’s wedding, 42–43, 45, 182
  various, 182
Valois Tapestries, 17–18, 20, 23, 25
Vasto, Marques del, 181
Vermeyen, Jan Cornelisz, 29, 38, 80, 124–27
Vienna, retreat of Turks from, 71, 78, 112
Virgin Mary and Child, 80, 82–83, 86
Vital, Laurent, 35–36, 66

W wagering, on tournaments, 27
Waldeck, Cuntess of, 58 warfare Arabian cavalry tactics, 25–26 garniture for, 48n, 63 as motif for tournament art, 29 tournaments as training for, 4–6, 17, 43, 118
Whitehall tournament, 184–85
Wolf of Landshut (armorer), 63–64, 97–99, 103, 163 women at Brussels celebrations, 128–29 games for, 26
  as recipients of jousters’ prizes, 58 as tourney audience, 10–11, 40, 52–56
  as tourney judges, 27
Wyngaerde, Anthonis van den, 60, 62

Z
Zapata, Lope, 10
Zaragoza, 8, 179
Zuñiga, Juan de, 35, 37, 41